

This document is intended for the victims of the acts of terrorism committed in Nice on 14th July 2016. It is designed to summarise the role of the Guarantee Fund from your initial claim until you have been compensated for your losses and to inform you of the formalities involved in order to help you overcome any difficulties.

The Prevention of Terrorism and State Security Act of 9th September 1986 created a guarantee fund charged with paying compensation for bodily harm resulting from acts of terrorism. The fund is financed by a contribution levied on property insurance policies.

Persons entitled to compensation

Since the act of terrorism occurred in France, all victims are entitled to compensation irrespective of nationality.

Victims or their beneficiaries* have a period of ten years to make a claim to the Guarantee Fund, after which an application for relief may be made to the FGTI's Board of Directors.

*The term beneficiaries refers to the victim's spouse, children, parents, grandparents, grandchildren, brothers, sisters, etc.

Losses covered

Bodily harm (death / injuries)

You will be fully compensated for bodily harm, usually after an assessment by a doctor designated by the Guarantee Fund.

Making your initial claim

The public prosecutor informs the Guarantee Fund of the event and of the victims' identities but anyone believing that they have been the victim of an act of terrorism may apply directly to the Guarantee Fund.

When making your initial claim, you must send the following to the Guarantee Fund :

- ➔ proof of your identity, certificate or photocopy of your passport or ID card
- ➔ If you are a right holder of a deceased person: supporting document certifying your family relationship
- ➔ full supporting documents for your bodily harm (initial medical certificate and statement of any initial expenses incurred as a result of the attack);
- ➔ full bank details.

Compensation payment process

The Guarantee Fund will assist you in putting your claim together and will make you an interim payment within at most one month of receiving your claim in order to cover your initial expenses.

Further interim payments may be made depending on your medical condition and personal circumstances according to a personalised assessment by the Guarantee Fund.

All your losses resulting from the act of terrorism will be covered by the Guarantee Fund whether you are an injured victim or a beneficiary (close family member) of a deceased victim.

The Guarantee Fund must make you a definitive compensation offer within three months of receiving the supporting documents for your losses.

If you decide not to accept the offer, you have the right to make a claim before the district court.

If you have been injured

The Guarantee Fund will assess all your losses, taking account of any payments received from other sources for the same losses (e.g. national insurance or a mutual insurance scheme). This compensation may be paid after a medical assessment requested by the Guarantee Fund.

If you have lost a close relative

As a beneficiary (spouse, child, parent, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, etc), you may obtain compensation for your non-financial losses and any financial losses that you may have suffered as a result of your relative's death. Financial losses and funeral expenses are assessed by the Guarantee Fund, which also takes account of any payments that may have been made for the same losses by any other organisation.
